

BONUS & GUARANTEES

GOH CONSULTING

The Power of Bonuses

Your core offer sells the result, your bonuses remove every excuse they have for not buying

- Expand the price-to-value gap without discounting.
- The value of bonuses should always be more than the core offer
 - Subconsciously think that the core offer is more valuable than the bonuses

Rules

1. The total value of bonuses should eclipse the core offer.
2. Each bonus must attack one specific objection or future problem. If it doesn't, delete it.
3. Tools, templates, and checklists > extra training because they give speed with less effort.
4. Some bonuses should solve future "success problems," implying they will win.

Bonus Templates

1. List your top 10 objections (money, time, complexity, belief in self, belief in you PS. go back to product market fit if needed)

-

2. Structure your bonuses in this format

What it is:

Benefit:

Detailed Explanation

Ex.

1. Sales Team Marketplace: We give you access to our trained appointment setters database so you don't have to stress about sourcing an appointment setter
2. Exclusive Systems: Plug and play landing pages, email sequences, nurturing processes, all within our GHL so you can copy and paste our $200k/mo systems

The Power of Guarantees

Guarantees are a huge selling point

- People think it's too risky to buy
- Use it to push people over the fence

The idea of it being 0 risk appeals to every single person, so utilize that

Be bold about your guarantee. Own your position

Types of Guarantees

Unconditional Guarantee

If you have no case studies and proof → Unconditional Guarantee

Ex. Unconditional 30-day money-back guarantee no questions asked

Shows an insane amount of confidence in your product

Conditional Guarantee

If fulfillment is dialed and you know the key actions that drive success → Conditional Guarantee

Ex. If you don't achieve X in Y time, we will continue working with you until you do IF you attend coaching calls, etc

Ex. If you don't achieve X in Y time, we will give you a full refund, send you an extra $1000, and keep working with you for free until you do achieve X if you do X, Y and Z

Anti Guarantee

If you have tons of proof and a waitlist → Anti Guarantee

Ex. We're so good in this market that we don't need a guarantee, so take it or leave it

Option 1 is 0 risk but will not get you to where you want to go

Option 2 is 0 risk but will likely get you to where you want to go

Guarantees are calculated risks; in the long run, they will always pay off