Overview

This guide is all about understanding your audience's needs deeply. Gather as much data as you can from your market research to get the best results, and refer to your notes and recordings for insights.

Current situation

Start by understanding the problems your avatar faces right now.

Overall problems list

Deep-rooted problem

- What is the deep-rooted problem that keeps them up at night?
- Example: it's not actually working the job he hates — it's knowing he could be working toward his dream life.

Desired situation

Now envision where your avatar wants to be.

Overall desires list

Deep-rooted desires

- What do they truly want if they vividly imagined their dream life?

Unique selling proposition

What makes you stand out? Brainstorm why your offer is unique in the market.

- The reason your clients choose you instead of the hundreds of other competitors.

The bridge

Now that we have everything, create an avatar you are serving. Every creator has a niche of one — this will help you find what that is.

CHATGPT PROMPT

Hey, I'm {NAME} and I want to create strong marketing messaging for my consulting business using data I've collected from my audience.

Before we start, I want to give you that data so we have something to work with here. I'll give you data on my audience's...

1. Current Situation
2. Desired Situation
3. My Unique Selling Proposition
4. The Bridge Between My Audience's Current Situation And Desired Situation
5. The Overall Transformation Of My Consulting Product
6. Transformation Proof Of My Consulting Product

Now ChatGPT is fuelled up with the power of data. It's time to get the marketing avatar in detail...

CHATGPT PROMPT

Now I want to create a marketing avatar using the audience's data above. This avatar's name is Steve. Using all of the data above, describe who Steve is by answering the questions below. Expand on descriptions that need expanding.

Describe your avatar's background and current lifestyle. What is their occupation or daily work routine? How do they typically spend their time during the week, both professionally and personally? What sources do they rely on for news and information outside of their work?

What is their financial situation like? How satisfied or dissatisfied are they with their current job or income level? What are their main concerns and priorities in life? How do their personality traits and life circumstances impact the way you approach marketing your product to them?

Share some key experiences or events from your avatar's past that have shaped who they are today. How do they feel about these events, and how have they influenced their current aspirations and interests? Consider significant past jobs, experiences, or life-changing moments that have played a role in shaping their goals.

Discuss their family and relationship status. Are they married, single, or divorced? Do they have children, and if so, how many? How might their family situation impact how they use your product or integrate it into their daily life? Does your product address any concerns or challenges they face related to their family or relationships?

Explain the specific ways your product addresses your avatar's needs, challenges, or desires. How does your product solve a problem, alleviate a pain point, or bring positive benefits to their life? How can your product make a meaningful difference in their life or help them achieve their goals?

Consider the thought process of your avatar right before they decide to purchase your product. What doubts or hesitations might they have? What would be the tipping point or final factor that convinces them to take action? Identify the key emotional and practical triggers that lead them to invest in your product.
